
We recommend you cite the published version.
The publisher's URL is: http://www.ahra-architecture.org/events/details/6th_annual_ahra_research_student_symposium/

Refereed: Yes

(no note)

Disclaimer

UWE has obtained warranties from all depositors as to their title in the material deposited and as to their right to deposit such material.

UWE makes no representation or warranties of commercial utility, title, or fitness for a particular purpose or any other warranty, express or implied in respect of any material deposited.

UWE makes no representation that the use of the materials will not infringe any patent, copyright, trademark or other property or proprietary rights.

UWE accepts no liability for any infringement of intellectual property rights in any material deposited but will remove such material from public view pending investigation in the event of an allegation of any such infringement.

PLEASE SCROLL DOWN FOR TEXT.
Lessons from the Campsite

This poster describes an ongoing research project which examines the campsite, in order to explore the particular qualities that make campsites work as temporary communities. The study draws on a visual methodology – using photographs and drawings - and focuses on spatial and social relationships. The study is used to develop a taxonomy of socio-spatial relationships which in turn might be used to draw lessons for the design of socially sustainable communities.

The research explores 4 key questions:

- Why is it that Children make friends with other children on campsites within days, whereas they often don't know the children in their own street?
- How do people choose to arrange their dwellings when they are given a free choice?
- How do campsites function as communities whilst remaining adaptable and 'loose-fit'?
- How does the shared space of the campsite work in practice?