Abstract Title: Erasmus Staff Mobility: Evaluating the experience of nurse teachers.
Type of Presentation: Concurrent Aim of Paper: To disseminate knowledge from an evaluation of the experiences of nurse teachers following a period of Erasmus staff mobility, and contribute to the development of similar activity within nurse education.

Abstract:

Erasmus student and staff mobility was established in the Department of Nursing and Midwifery at the University of the West of England (UWE) in 2006. Since then the number of partnerships and activity with European HEI’s has steadily increased mirrored by a simultaneous growth in teacher mobility. Whilst Erasmus student mobility is relatively well known, there is a dearth of literature that evaluates staff experience of mobility suggesting the need for a better understanding of such experiences. The European Commission identify a range of objectives for staff mobility and it is timely to consider to what extent these are achieved (European Commission 2012). This concurrent session will present the findings from a study designed to evaluate the experiences of nine nurse teachers from UWE and HEI’s in Norway and Finland returning from a period of staff mobility or ‘cultural immersion’ (Hanvey 1979). A short written questionnaire was sent to all teachers following their visit and content analysis was used to identify emerging themes, namely:

- The practice of teaching nursing
- Self and professional development
- Cultural learning and consciousness
- Developing partnership
The findings from this study will be explored and highlight benefits and challenges of staff mobility for the teacher, and for the organisation in relation to workforce development, service improvement and internationalisation. The opportunities evolved through Erasmus staff mobility can contribute significantly to the development of staff and the organisation. This presentation, in the midst of changes to higher education and nursing in the UK, will outline clear benefits in the development of closer relationships with other European HEI’s through Erasmus staff mobility.

Intended Learning Outcomes:

1. Gain an increased understanding of the experiences nurse teachers engaging in Erasmus staff mobility or ‘cultural immersion’.
2. To reflect on the outcomes of an evaluation of nurse teacher experiences.
3. To consider how staff mobility can be further developed in nurse education to promote internationalisation.

Biography:

Clive is currently a Senior Lecturer in Nursing at UWE. He has been involved with Erasmus and International experience projects for several years, establishing Erasmus for nurses and midwives at UWE in 2006. He has a clinical background in HIV nursing and palliative care, and manages palliative and end of life care education at UWE. He works in collaboration with a number of service providers to facilitate service improvement, often through work based learning.

Sue is currently a Senior Lecturer in Nursing at UWE. She has supported the Erasmus programme in particular with incoming students and teachers from the Erasmus partnerships and developing programmes to support their UK health care experience. She has also worked extensively in the pre-registration programme supporting curriculum development and as a year tutor.
